OPERATION BEDDING

A Marine's Last Request...

Operation Bedding came to be after a Sunday morning phone call from my son Adam, who at the time was serving in Iraq in support of Operation Iraqi Freedom. He requested some basic supplies which included pillows. He said "whatever you send make sure it is in the amount of forty". He wanted to insure that his comrades have the same comforts that he did. He laughed at my response and said "get Operation Bedding going Mom" That Friday Adam was killed. Without realizing it Adam had inspired his own Memorial Fund.

WHAT WE DO

Each week we send out a variety of supplies on average about six to ten cases. Items that need to be replaced often are baby wipes. They are used often due to the extreme heat and limited bathroom conditions. Powdered drink mixes are another item we have a hard time keeping up with. The most requested kind is Gatorade. To keep them from dehydrating due to the high temperatures, the troops are required to drink a certain amount of water each day. They said it's much easier to do if it's flavored and Gatorade contains much needed electrolytes. However, the most appreciated item was a shipment of new pillows. Something so simple meant so much to the marines. One marine told me it was like Christmas morning when the boxes came in! They are thankful for every item sent especially letters from strangers. Just knowing that people do care and appreciate their effort keeps them going everyday. Please - there are many ways you can help. Even the smallest gesture may mean a great deal to someone so far from home.

13,000 and counting

Since its founding in 2006 Operation Bedding has sent more than 13 THOUSAND PACKAGES to our troops overseas. This extraordinary effort is a direct result of YOUR generosity.

VOLUNTEERS

We would like to extend our sincere appreciation for all the love and support shown to us. Without all of you who so generously give your time and donations we would not be able to accomplish what we have so far. Please know that the marines have extended their heartfelt thanks for all we do to make their mission a little easier.
